

Zip It Gear: Travel Socks With Pockets

Zip It Gear travel socks are a good alternative to those under-the-shirt travel wallet thingies beloved by grandparents everywhere. Actually, maybe it was just my grandparents. They must have given me one of those things at least five times. And I remember being like, gee, thanks. Now I can advertise to the world exactly where my important travel documents are - just look for the square wallet-like bulge in my shirt.

But I digress. My point here was socks. Zip It Gear travel socks are have a handy - you guessed it - zipper that leads to an even handier pocket in which one can store one's license, passport (on the knee sock versions) and other small items best tucked away in dark, clandestine locations.

The socks come in men's, women's and kids' sizes and are available in travel sock, sports sock, ankle sock and dress sock versions. This zipper-crazed company also puts pockets in wristbands and armbands for working out.
